Gordon's understanding of what listeners need to know and the questions they would like answered are a perfect match for the morning show. Before taking the helm at The Wall Street Journal This Morning in November 2005, Gordon was well-known to New York City radio listeners, having worked at both WINS-AM and WCBS-AM where he honed his writing skills and developed his distinctive on-air reporting style. He also served as a New York City bureau chief for Metro Networks where his reports aired on WOR-AM and WABC-AM. Gordon began his career in radio as a play-by-play sports announcer for Rutgers University, his alma mater. He also finds time to work as the Public Address announcer for New York Giants football; formerly the announcer for Army football. His hobbies include fishing, whitewater rafting, and coaching soccer. He lives with his wife Kelly, their two children, and four dogs in central New Jersey.
