About The Show

Three hours. One mission.
Celebrating the women of country music.

She's Country is a nationally syndicated weekend show dedicated exclusively to the women of country music.

Hosted by Emily Harlan, this three-hour program celebrates the artists who are shaping the genre — from today's biggest superstars to the rising stars making their mark on country music.

Each week, listeners hear the best music from female country artists along with exclusive interviews, behind-the-scenes stories, and personal conversations that offer a deeper connection to the women behind the songs.

Originally launched as a one-hour feature, the show's popularity and audience demand led to its expansion into a three-hour weekend destination for country music fans.

She's Country provides stations with a fresh, distinctive programming option for the country format that delivers compelling artist access, engaging content, and great country music.

Whether featuring chart-topping hitmakers, emerging talent, or unforgettable stories from the road, She's Country shines a spotlight on the voices, songs, and stories of the women driving country music forward.

About The Host

Emily Harlan is a dynamic radio personality with a passion for country music and a talent for connecting with audiences across the country.

She currently hosts multiple shows in major markets such as San Francisco, Portland, and Long Island, bringing her authentic style and love of the format to listeners across the nation.

As the creator and host of She's Country, Emily shines a spotlight on the women of country music through exclusive artist interviews, compelling stories, and the songs that continue to shape the genre. Her passion for artist relationships and storytelling has made her a trusted voice among both listeners and the country music community.

Beyond radio, Emily serves as the in-arena host for the San Jose Sharks, energizing fans and creating memorable live entertainment experiences during home games.

When she's not on the air, you'll likely find Emily enjoying a glass of wine on an outdoor patio with her husband and their rescue dog, attending country concerts, or discovering the next great country song to share with her audience.

With a career built on authenticity, enthusiasm, and a genuine love for country music, Emily continues to entertain and connect with listeners wherever they tune in.
